NEW-YORK, TUESDAY, JUNE 22, 1841.

STORM AT THE SOUTH.—A violent and destructive storm of wind, hail and rain passed over an extensive range of country about Richmond, Va., on the 12th. The Stanton Spectator says that it did serious damage south and west of that place. It was of short duration, but the quantity of water that fell was immense, the wind blowing almost a hurricane, and the hail falling in some places as big as walnuts, the latter did the work of destruction in the uplands almost as effectively as the flood in the valleys. The creeks in the vicinity were much higher than they were ever known to be before, and several houses on their banks were swept away. On the farms within the compass of the storm, fencing was prostrated for miles on the uplands, growing crops were beaten into the earth by the rain and hail, and all the meadows and lowlands along the creeks, if not permanently injured, are at least ruined for the present season.

SEVERE THUNDER STORM.—A violent and destructive storm visited Danville, Pa., on the 31st inst. The roofs of several warehouses, dwellings and barns were blown to a considerable distance, many windows were broken in, and a cooper's shop, owned by a Mr. Welsh, and the barn of Mr. Shuman, were struck by lightning and burned to the ground, with all their contents.

ATTEMPTED MURDER.—In the course of an altercation at Fairfield, Conn., between an elderly pauper named Andrew Moscow and David Bell, with whom the former lived, the latter was beaten by Moscow so severely with a club that it was not likely he could long survive. On being brought up for examination, on charge of an assault with intent to kill, Moscow pleaded guilty and was committed for trial.

FIRE AT ELMIRA, N. Y.—On Thursday morning last the flourishing village of Elmira, Chemung Co., N. Y. was visited by a destructive fire, which consumed thirty-two dwellings and stores. It broke out in the heart of the village about half past 12, A. M. and in one hour and a half reduced some eighteen stores, &c. to ashes, including the Post Office. It is believed that the Mills were saved, as a clerk always slept in the office. All the houses destroyed were of wood, which aided the progress of the flames, in spite of the immediate proximity of the river, the aid of two fire-engines, and the exertions of the citizens. About one-half the property destroyed was insured. No lives were lost and no person injured.

The following are the names of the principal sufferers: Wikham & Tuttle, S. L. Gillet, W. & G. Post, dry goods; J. C. Sampson, hardware; Foster & Chubbuck, Seth Kelley; Congdon, groceries; Dr. Bedell, drug-store; Dr. Ulrich Smith, dwelling; P. Collingwood, silversmith; Hoffman & Gardner, hatters; Tuttle's Mansion-house, &c.

Buenos Ayres.—We have received Buenos Ayres papers to the 10th of April. An attempt was made, on the 20th March, to take the life of Gov. Rosas, by means of an "infernal machine" in the shape of a box containing sixteen gun barrels, loaded to the muzzle. The box was opened by Donna Mariana, the daughter of the Governor, but without occasioning any injury, the main spring of the concern having been deranged or broken. The "British Packet" of April 3d gives a description of the fiendish contrivance. It was quite portable, being no larger than a dressing case. The flight of Lavalle from the strong position of Cueva de Guacha, had rendered comparatively easy what remained to be accomplished of the task of pacifying the Northern provinces of the confederation.

Rio Grande.—Capt. Monson, of the brig Pauline, arrived from Rio Grande, (says the Journal of Commerce) informs us that the political situation of the province remained, when he sailed on the 10th ultimo, the same as it had been for some time past. The revolutionary party remained perfect masters of the interior, and the communication with the city was totally stopped.

CIRCUIT COURT—RHODE-ISLAND DISTRICT.
JES. TREM, New-Judge, June 16, 1841.
Present, Mr. Justice STORY, and Hon. Judge PITMAN.

Joseph P. Peters vs. Charles E. Sawyer.
This was an assumpsit to recover of the defendant about $1,000 or more, which it was alleged the defendant, as agent of the Coal Mining Company at Portsmouth, had misapplied in his management of the Company's affairs.

On T. Peters, brother of the plaintiff, testified that the defendant was agent for the Company, and to his misapplication of the funds entrusted to him, and to his mismanagement of the Company's affairs. The defendant had contracted sundry small debts with divers persons, in his own name, but in fact, as the witness testified, on account of the Company, of which the witness further testified, the plaintiff was sole proprietor. These small debts had been paid by the plaintiff, and formed a part of the sum sought to be recovered by this suit.

The ground of the claim was, that the defendant, as agent of the plaintiff, had disobeyed the instructions of his principal (the plaintiff), generally and in particulars.

The defence was, that the defendant was the plaintiff's co-partner in respect to the affairs in controversy in this suit, and that therefore assumpsit would not lie between them. The plaintiff, if he had cause of action, had mistaken his form, and assumpsit must be abandoned.

To prove the alleged partnership, the defendant's counsel introduced a series of letters, written by the witness, O. T. Peters, to the defendant, from New-York to Portsmouth, at the time the defendant had charge of the affairs of the Company. This correspondence appeared to be very much at variance with the witness's present recollection. The witness had been positively that there had been no partnership, and that he, the witness, had had no interest whatever in the Company's concern. These, his own letters to the defendant, conveyed an entirely different impression, so that upon an information from the Court, the plaintiff's counsel agreed to discontinue the suit, on costs to either party.

For the plaintiff, Pearce & Turner; for the defendant, A. C. Greene and Lathrop S. Eddy, of New-York.

Correspondence of the Tribune.

Bacon's Hotel, Utica, June 19th, 1841.
For about two weeks I have had the pleasure of residing in this beautiful city of Central New-York, and must say that I am delighted both with its location and generally speaking, with its inhabitants.

It is pleasantly and airily situated in the midst of an enterprising, intelligent and thriving agricultural population, and a fertile country. The streets are wide and cleanly, and the houses and stores substantially and neatly constructed, and there is every indication of thrift and successful enterprise. Not a single house have I yet noticed with the ominous sign 'to let' upon it, which speaks volumes in favor of its prosperous condition. No inland city or town of New-York, I am persuaded does a mercantile business so extensive, and at the same time so safe and profitable.

Its population are intelligent, highminded, and liberal. One substantial reason upon which I build this judgment is the commendable fact that they patronize publications liberally. Yours Daily Tribune was introduced here but a short time since, and it has a circulation already of some two or three hundred daily. This indicates that the people of Utica are not only intelligent, but that they are also free from that despicable two-penny narrowness of soul which unfortunately characterizes some persons and some places. There is also a praiseworthy exemption from sour, illiberal and bitter political prejudices, so much so that several respectable Opposition gentlemen take your paper and are not fearful of its polluting or desecrating their stores or their dwellings.

Yours, &c. G.

City Intelligence.

COURT OF SESSIONS—Monday.—Before the Recorder, Judges Lynch and Noah, and Aldermen Lee and Pollock.

The following additional Grand Jurors were sworn in:

George Pirnie, Aaron Butterfield,

George Miller, Daniel B. Phillips,

Daniel W. Gilmore, Samuel B. Sturges.

Wilson G. Hunt.

John Smith, Charles Dearborn, John Christopher and Josiah Banta, seamen, were tried for grand larceny, stealing numerous articles of male and female wearing apparel from the passengers of the ship Argo, when lying at the Quamsee Ground, Staten Island, on the 24th May last.

Charles G. Dolan, first officer of the Argo, deposed that he was absent from the ship when the robbery was committed, and returning near midnight, all was still. The next morning two trunks were found between decks, that had been taken from the hold. The articles of apparel enumerated in the complaint of the above amount, were found stowed away in the fore-castle. The witness did not consider the voyage as terminated until the vessel was made fast at the wharf in this city. [Col. Haskett, of counsel, here contended, that the larceny was alleged to have been committed, before the voyage was ended, the matter properly came before the United States—this Court not having jurisdiction—or that the venue should be laid in Richmond County, where the offence was committed. The Court said the jurisdiction extended over all the bay of New-York, and overruled objection.]

Joseph Morris, one of the sailors, deposed that the morning after the robbery, Dearborn told him he had done enough the previous night to send him to the State Prison for 5 years. He then went on to give an account of the robbery, and where he had concealed the property. He stated to witness that Christopher and himself had had a fight about the division of the property—and marks of blood were found where the affray took place. He did not say that the other two were concerned.

Joshua Curtis, also a seaman, deposed that Dearborn told him the morning after the robbery, that himself, and Christopher and Smith had opened two trunks and stolen the clothing, and that they went down the second time, when Barton went with them, and assisted, and also spoke of the fight between himself and Christopher.

Levi Dyer, carpenter of the ship, deposed that he saw a light at night and heard the voices of Dearborn and Christopher, who were drinking champagne. Heard Christopher say these things must go back where we got them—supposing he meant the bottles. As there was no evidence against Smith and Banta except Dearborn's confessions, the Jury found them not guilty. Smith and Banta were then sworn, both of whom denied knowing any thing of the robbery. Banta, however, deposed that Morris, one of the witnesses, came on board at midnight with a bundle in his hand. The Jury found Christopher and Dearborn also not guilty.

Andrew Note, a colored fellow, who had been in the State Prison and served out his time, was tried for an assault and battery with intent to commit a rape on Catharine Gallagher, a married woman, of the 8th Avenue, near 90th-street, on the afternoon of the 21st of April last. Mrs. Gallagher said she was sitting in her house with her infant in her arms, when the prisoner came and asked for a drink of water, which she gave him a bowl to go to the spring and get. When he returned he said he wanted her for his wife, and on her telling him to be gone, he broke the bowl and proceeded to acts of violence, when she escaped out of doors and screamed for assistance, her clothes badly torn, and her throat sore with choking. He then took the infant by the neck, and made it scream, and called her back, when Mr. Russell, a neighbor, came to her assistance and secured the fellow, who was taken to Harlem. The Jury found the prisoner guilty.

Daniel W. Clark, was tried for a misdemeanor in cutting timber in the 12th Ward, between 106th and 107th-streets and the 8th and 9th Avenues, on the lands of Nicholas Hayward and Francis B. Cutting, in December last. Robert Thompson, Special Officer of the 12th Ward, deposed that he found John Sweeney engaged in carrying off wood from Mr. Hayward's land, and Clark near him with an axe. He arrested Sweeney, when Clark told him not to take Sweeney, as it was all his (Clark's) fault. Sweeney was in prison 10 weeks before the whole facts were known, when he was discharged on his own recognizance.

Sweeney deposed that he was employed by Clark to cut timber and did cut four small trees by Clark's orders on Hayward's land, when Clark took the axe and cut some himself, getting Sweeney to carry the cut timber off the land as quick as possible. Mr. Bayan, of Counsel, said there was a fatal defect in the indictment as it was charged that the land and timber were the property of Messrs. Hayward and Cutting, whereas the proof was, it was found that the land and timber belonged to Mr. Hayward alone. The court favored this opinion and so charged the jury, advising them however that they were the judges of both the law and the facts. The Jury found the accused guilty and he is being present in court, his recognizance was forfeited.

Daniel S. Clark was tried for a misdemeanor, in keeping a disorderly house in Water street, between Dover-street and Peck Slip. It was proved, by officer Brockley, that the accused kept a porter house and dance house where men and women assembled and drank and danced until ten, eleven, and twelve o'clock at night. The dance-room was a large one, under ground, and there were occasional fights there. The women who were reputed to be girls of the town and bad characters, would make a noise when they came out. Accused kept the place as strictly as he could for that kind of a house. He removed in the month of March or April.

George Barry deposed that he lived at 238 Water street, opposite Clark's, and that himself and family were awakened and disturbed at all hours of the night and could not sleep by the noises from that, and the houses on each side of it. Women of bad fame frequented the house, and screamed and were noisy. The noise was so great that witness had to remove his family.

For the defence General Bogarus called sundry watchmen, who deposed that they never heard much noise or saw any disturbance there, and that the place was closed at 12 o'clock at night. The houses on either side were much more noisy than this.

Cross examined—Three of them admitted that the women who frequented or came out of the house, were disorderly characters—many of the men, sailors.

For the prosecution, Mr. Williams deposed that the neighborhood was a very noisy one, but he could not tell from what particular house the noise came.

Mr. Carroll visited the place frequently at all hours—as late as 1 o'clock sometimes—had danced there—had seen gambling on the sweat-cloth. The females there were of bad fame.

Dr. Halsey, late Assistant Alderman of the Fourth Ward, deposed that the house was the resort of rowdies and prostitutes. He visited the hall room once disguised as a seaman, to ascertain the kind of characters who came there, and the conduct they indulged in. Found females there from the Five Points and Walnut st. Went once with Justice Matself there. On two several night arrested two had women for indecent conduct, who came out of that house.

Other witnesses for defence deposed that the neighborhood was not disturbed—that captains of sloops, their sailors and young men of the city came there, drank and went away.—The dancing was in the hall-room, 40 feet long, in the basement. All was closed at midnight.

General Bogarus contended that it was no more harm to dance there than at Tammany Hall, the City Hotel or at Niblo's. Bad women could go to all these places at times. The Jury found the accused guilty.

POLICE OFFICE.—Thefts.—Catharine Clarke was arrested and committed for stealing $11 in bills and a pair of shoes from John Cunningham of No. 31 Orange street, which she confessed to have stolen and was committed to prison.

John Simpson was arrested and committed for stealing a roundabout Jacket from Bernard McLean, No. 23 Cross street.

(For other important cases see the second page.)

Coroner's Office.—The Coroner yesterday held an inquest at his office on the body of Sarah Freeman, aged 30, a native of this city, wife of Henry Freeman, who with her family resided in a dark cellar at No. 26 Cross street. The deceased had been ill for six months of something like consumptive disease—had no attending physician, but obtained medicines occasionally at the Dispensary. On Saturday night she became worse, and on Sunday morning was so alarmingly ill that her husband went to call in a neighbor, and when they returned, they discovered she had discharged a large amount of blood and in a few minutes she died. Verdict, died of inflammation of the lungs.

The Coroner has published the following notice:—The Coroner having received several anonymous letters, calling upon him to investigate mysterious deaths, &c. &c., hereby informs all whom it may concern, that no attention will be paid to the communications of any individual who fears to put his name and place of residence, at the bottom of his note. (Signed) C. B. ARCHER, Coroner.
